CLASS NEWS 3/6J
3/6 J Tightening Tension Paragraphs
3/6J have been creating descriptive paragraphs, making the reader feel like they are actually there – reading a speech to the class, kicking a winning goal for your team at the MCG. They must see, touch and feel everything the main character does. We are trying to get rid of the ‘boring bits’ in our writing and captivate the audience. Hope you enjoy some samples of our tightening tension paragraphs!

Sweat dripping from my forehead, only 20 seconds to go..19, 18 no ones in front. Seconds keep ticking..17, 16 boom, what a hard kick and and and it’s a fail! Dekoda

Glenroy is in the Grand Final and I have the chance to win the game. If I shoot the goal, we win. If I miss, we lose. I take a deep breath and I take my shot. I got it in and we won. Shaylei
I’m going to be chosen any moment now. What am I going to do? My heart is pounding, I feel sick, but I’m going to do it anyway. I start to read my speech when I suddenly stop...no one is clapping, they just stare at me. Kira

It’s the last quarter and it’s 75 all. We need one more goal to seal victory. If Collingwood get a goal they win. Juddy goes for the tackle, he gets the ball off the Collingwood player and passes it to Murphy. There is only two minutes left on the clock and Murphy kicks it back to Judd and he goes for goal and..... Tahlia

My name has just been called out over the loud speaker. What did I do wrong? I slowly walked to the office, my heart pounding. My sweaty hands knocked on the Principal’s door. Seconds later he opened it...... Brodie

Here I go, I don’t know if I should pass it because both of my wingers on my left and right have other people from the opposition on them. Montana tells me to pass but I did a dummy half so everyone went to Montana. It worked....I have a clear path so I sprint, put it down...hooray they put the Thunder Strike song on and we high five each other. Jayda

It’s the tennis finals, Mr Arnott against Mrs Saunders. Here we go, Mrs Saunders is serving and it hits Mr Arnott in the face. He is down and he doesn’t look like getting up in a hurry. Ebony

OMG 15 seconds left and it’s neck and neck. OMG here comes the ball. He kicks it to me and I mark it. I have to kick a goal, 25 or 30 metres out and there’s only 5 seconds left. I kick it, I've done it!! OMG.. I've hit a streaker! Liam

There are still a few shoe pot plants waiting to go to their new home. If your child joined in this fun activity make sure they bring it home to brighten up your life.

You are invited to take part in a community stargazing where you can witness the dramatic landscape astrophotography of Gregg Gibbs, listen to Aboriginal stories, learn about the solar system and enjoy a twilight BBQ while we wait for the sun to set. Then get up close with the wonder and mystery of the night sky by looking through telescopes with experts from the Albury Wodonga Astronomical Society.

Stardust begins with three FREE Stargazing Evenings held across the following locations:

  Riverina Highway, Savernake NSW
- Thursday 18 September 2014

  Kosciusko Rd, Thurgoona NSW
- Thursday 9 October 2014
  6:00pm till late,

This unique experience gives participants another opportunity to engage in the (WE ARE ALL MADE OF ) STARDUST project, through a charcoal drawing, animation workshop. Artist Zhen Chew will guide interested participants through the creation of an animation based on the stories, images and interpretations experienced during the stargazing evening. Individual stories will be woven together to create a short film.
